The Mystery at Disney World

Bring It To Life!

1. Map it Out! Find a map of the United States. List all the states Grant and Christina would have to travel through if they drove from your state to Disney World in Florida. Then, put the states in alphabetical order on another list. Finally, list the states from smallest to largest on a third list!
2. Build it! Construct a model of Cinderella's Castle. You can build just the front of the castle, or a four-sided structure. Make it as big or as small as you want. Use modeling clay, cardboard, paint, toothpicks, ribbons, aluminum foil, etc. Make Walt Disney proud!
3. Check your memory! Divide into two teams. List as many Disney World rides and attractions as you can. The team with the most listed (correctly, of course) wins!
4. Pretend you are a Disney employee! Where would you like to work? Would you like to work at a ride, or a waterpark, or at EPCOT, or at MGM Studios?
Would you rather be a Disney Imagineer, an artist, or an actor?
Sit in a circle, tell your choice, and explain why you chose it!

The Mystery at Disney World

Talk About It!

1. Who was your favorite character? Why?
2. What are some character traits of an inventive person like Walt Disney?
3. How would you spend a day at Disney World? Where would you go? What would you do?
4. What was the scariest part of the book? Why?
5. The video games in the Tomorrowland arcade were not invented when Walt Disney was still alive. Knowing how important imagination was to him, do you think he would have allowed them to be put there? Why or why not?
6. Christina doesn't think that splitting up to solve the mystery is a good idea. Why did she feel that way? What ended up happening after that?
7. After notifying the security guards, Christina tried to save Grant on her own. Was that a smart thing to do? What would you have done?
8. What was your favorite part of the book? Why?
