

Give a child a book too hard and see him turn away.

Give a child a book that's dull and watch her go and play.

But give a child a mystery and soon you will discover

That they will beg you constantly
"Please, may I have another?!"

