The Horrendous Hurricane Mystery

Bring It To Life!

1. Let's blog! First, create your own user name (like RedRooster). Be creative! Then, have each member write his or her user name and a question at the top of a piece of notebook paper. Pass your "blogs" around the group. Answer the question the person asked, and create a new question for the next person. Keep passing until your piece of paper has made its way all around the group. Then read your silly conversations out loud.
2. Be prepared! Imagine a storm is coming and your book club is stuck in the house! Have each member find an item for a hurricane survival kit. Be sure to collect bottled water, canned food, a can opener, a flashlight, and some batteries. You might even want to include some games to pass the time.
3. Map your own evacuation route! Find a map of your state. Decide as a group what would be the best way to escape if a hurricane was on the way. Trace the highways with a highlighter so you won't forget the way!
4. Let's get naming! Ask each member of the group to make up as many hurricane names as they can, using the first letter of their first name. The one with the most hurricane names wins!
